That we sincerely regret the death of our friend Dr. Copeland in his early manhood at a time when faithful industry in his profession had raised him to a position of public service. The memory of his manly and amiable bearing during the years of our student life together comes back to us today and prompts this utterance of respect and regard.

THE CLASS AND COLLEGE FUNDS.

The subscription to the Class Fund amounts to $5,275, of which $3,887.90 has been paid, leaving an uncollected balance of $1,387.10. The amount standing to the credit of the Class at date is $4,320.95, being the sum of paid subscriptions together with accrued interest.

The College Fund of the Class is $1,140, of which $764 has been paid to the Secretary and by him passed to the trustees of the College Fund, leaving a balance of $376 unpaid.

The Secretary would make one more appeal to those of the Class whose payments to the Funds are yet in arrears; and he would gladly receive further subscriptions from those whose accounts are closed, but who may be inclined to make further donations. The nominal amount of both Funds is much less than the average subscribed by other Classes—and by reason of the smallness of the Class Fund an important object of its existence is defeated. Beside meeting the incidental expenses of the Class organization—as those incurred at Commencement, the Triennial Report and Dinner, etc.,—this Fund is intended to furnish pecuniary aid to classmates in extreme need. A painful incident has been brought lately to the notice of the Secretary, which bears upon this matter. A member of the Class, who took a high rank in College, became so reduced in circumstances that he applied to a classmate "for God's sake to get him a place as laborer in the streets of Boston!" Had an appeal been made in this instance to the Secretary and by him laid before the Class for action, it is possible that the last days of our deceased classmate might have been rendered more tolerable.

The following schedule comprises the alumni of the Class. In addition a subscription to the Class Fund, upon which one payment has been made, has been received from a non-graduate member, and a paid-up subscription from Mrs. Spring, of Portland, Me., in name of Edward Evans Spring, who left College in his Sophomore year and died subsequently in South America:
